

Copying under the CLA Licence for the NHS in England and under UK Legislation: summary table

	CLA Licence	UK Legislation
Who may make/receive copies?	All members of the NHS workforce, including primary care, public health, students on placement, and HEI providers of library services to the NHS	Anyone: under Copyright Law, individuals may make 'fair dealing' copies from copyright works
What may be copied?	Copies may be made from anything owned by/subscribed to by the NHS and covered by the CLA Licence	Fair dealing/library privilege copies may be made from any copyright work*
How much may be copied?	Two articles from a journal issue, any number from a themed issue; one chapter or 5% of a book	A 'reasonable' proportion e.g. one article from a journal issue, one chapter from a book
How many copies may be made?	Multiple copies, including copies of copies	Only single copies
Any restrictions on the purpose for copying?	Any NHS-related use	Personal/non-commercial research only
Are declarations required?	No	Yes (e-tick OK)
May we send copies electronically?	Yes	Yes
May we store copies?	Yes on secure networks for access by colleagues	Yes but for personal use only this includes journal articles and book chapters from titles not covered by the CLA Licence, regardless of format, but avoid making copies of 'free' internet content - send a link instead.*

Helen Bingham, December 2016