1. General principles

ILDS services should be operated with the following in mind:

- Striving for excellent customer service
- Optimal use of NHS owned resources
- Digital by default
- Streamlined, making use of shared and interoperable systems where possible
- Cost effective, e.g. using free sources before costed ones, but also taking into account staff time
- The CLA Licence and copyright legislation
- Data protection legislation

2. Copyright

See the copyright webpage on the NHS Library Services website for guidance on when you can supply copies under the CLA Licence, when to supply copies under Library Privilege, and when to obtain copyright fee paid copies. See also appendices A and B below.

Remember that Library Privilege overrides publisher licences, so libraries may supply single fair copies to other libraries from any copyright work, provided an end-user declaration is obtained.

3. Data protection

Data protection principles – in particular the General Data Protection Regulation – must be observed when processing personal data for ILDS purposes. Check with your trust/organisation lead for guidance on data protection to be sure that you are abiding by the principles.

4. Searching for items

Searches should be carried out following local/regional guidelines, or in the sequence recommended below, taking note of any libraries which are temporarily unable to supply:

1. NICE A-Z list of journals or your local library management system/discovery system.
2. Your local collaborative network.
3. Other collaborative networks free at the point of use – details of the INC scheme. Check this webpage to be sure that the library from which you are requesting is participating in the INC scheme.
4. Costed subscription-based collaborative networks such as NULJ and PLCS.
5. Costed services such as the BL and the BMA.
6. HealthILL and LIS-ILL mailing lists.

Do not use LIS-MEDICAL. Use general mailing lists only if permitted on those lists, and only as a last resort.

When selecting locations within networks, where all else is equal, select locations equitably and not always ‘the first in the list’.

5. Responsibilities of the requesting library

Ensure all details of the request are correct and complete before submission.

For journal articles:

1. Full citation details (or commonly understood abbreviations)
2. First author
3. First few words of the title

For books, as a minimum:

1. Author
2. Title
3. Year
4. Edition (if applicable)

For all requests:

- Your library code
- Your collaborative network name (if applying to another network)
- Your e-mail address
- Your full postal address
- Request number (if required for library management systems)
- The date the you are placing the request

For data protection reasons, do not include the requester's details.

Unless you use a shared request management system, send requests via e-mail. Include a clear indication in subject line that it is document or loan you are requesting. Urgent requests may be made by phone, but use discretion when describing requests as urgent.

If you need more than three requests from the same library at the same time, contact the library before applying to discuss, unless there is already an arrangement in place.

Do not:

- Make requests that would infringe copyright if supplied. If a declaration is required for the copy being requested, it is your responsibility to obtain this. Unless you know that the copy will be supplied under the terms of the CLA Licence, it is safest to assume that a declaration is required.
- Request multiple copies of single items.
- Assume that book loans will be renewed.
- Apply to more than one library in more than one collaborative network on the same request (individual network protocols may vary).

Do:

- Request items which are included in journal bundles from your own network before approaching libraries in other networks.

6. Responsibilities of the supplying library

Requests should be processed as soon as possible after receipt, preferably within 48 hours, and certainly no later than five working days. If you are unable to supply, or there will be a delay, let the requesting library know as soon as possible. Supplying libraries reserve the right to decline a request but should provide a reason.

Supply articles electronically.

Include the correct copyright statement with the copy supplied, so that the requesting library can forward this to their customer (see appendix B).

7. Responsibilities to customers

Ensure your customers understand the proposed timescales involved and are kept informed about the status of their requests.

Ensure your customers know whether/how they may share/store the copies that you supply by ensuring the correct copyright statement is attached.

8. Book renewals

Book renewals are at the discretion of the supplying library, or in accordance with regional/local inter-lending arrangements if specified in the regional/local guidelines.

9. Lost or damaged items

If the loss occurs during transit from the supplying library to the requesting library, the supplying library should assume responsibility for the loss.

If the loss occurs whilst the item is on load to the customer, or during transit back to the supplying library, then the borrowing library (or their customer) should assume responsibility.

Other arrangements may apply within individual networks.

10. Responsibilities to your network and other networks

Ensure the following are accurate and comprehensive:

- Your book and journal holdings on your local/regional LMS and/or union catalogue
- Your journal holdings in the link resolver
- Your library details on HLISD
- Your status information where appropriate (e.g. closures/unstaffed periods/special arrangements)

Maintain statistics for local and national purposes and use them to benchmark activity.

Appendix B: End-user declaration and copyright statements

End-user declarations (for copies that will be supplied under the Library Privilege)

I declare that:

- a) I have not previously been supplied with a copy of this by you or any other librarian;

- c) to the best of my knowledge, no other person with whom I work or study has made or intends to make, at or about the same time as this request, a request for substantially the same material for substantially the same purpose.

I understand that if the declaration is false in a material particular, the copy supplied to me by you will be an infringing copy, and that I shall be liable for infringement of copyright as if I had made the copy myself.

Statements for library staff to use with supplied copies

Copies supplied under the NHS CLA Licence:

“This copy has been supplied to you under the terms of the NHS England CLA Licence. You may store your own copy (e.g. on your personal drive or own PC), and make further copies for other NHS colleagues. You may put it on an intranet page but not place it on the internet. Thank you for your co-operation.”

Copies supplied under the Copyright Act, a Publisher Licence, or obtained from the BL, BMA or another non-NHS library:
